NOTICE.

To whom it may concern, know ye: That on or about the twenty fourth day of October, 1874, I gave Jim Kummerer my note of hand for three hundred dollars, payable six months after date, with interest at the rate of two per cent per month, which note I have not seen from that time to this. Kummerer having told me several times that he had lost the note. On the first day of May last Kummerer being about to leave for Sanpete with Stratton & Mitchell, he came to me and we settled the amount of said note. He counted up the interest himself that was due on the lost note (he said he had the date of the note on his book), and I paid him the interest and one hundred dollars on the principal, and gave him my note dated May 1st, 1876, for two hundred dollars, which last note he collected last fall or winter.

Now, in the course of the last week, I have been told that S. Loss has the original three hundred dollar note—the same note that Kummerer said he had lost—and is trying to sell or trade the note, and says that Johnnie will guarantee that there is no offset to it, and suggests to parties to whom he offers the note that they come to me and buy a large lot of flour and grain, and when they get it to offer this note in payment; and charges the person that he is trying to sell to not to keep the matter perfectly still, saying that if I find it out that they will not be able to make the trade. Now this is to warn everybody not to have anything to do with said three hundred dollar note, it having been fully paid and satisfied as stated above.

W. W. WEED.

THE RUSSIAN MANIFESTO.

The following is the text of the Czar's manifesto:—

Our faithful and beloved subjects know the strong interest we have always felt in the oppressed Christian population of Turkey. Our desire to ameliorate and assure their lot has been shared by the whole Russian nation, and shows itself ready to bear fresh sacrifices to alleviate the position of the Christians in the Balkan Peninsula. The blood and property of our faithful subjects have always been dear to us, and our whole reign attests the constant solicitude which has never failed to actuate us. In the deplorable events which occurred in Herzegovina, Bosnia and Bulgaria, our object, before all, was to effect an amelioration in the position of the Christians in the East by means of negotiations, and in concert with the great European powers, our allies and friends, for two years we have made incessant efforts to induce the Porte to effect such reforms as would protect the Christians in Bosnia, Herzegovina and Bulgaria, from the arbitrary measures of the local authorities. The accomplishment of these reforms was absolutely stipulated by anterior engagements, contracted by the Porte toward the whole of the European powers supported by diplomatic representations, made in common. The other governments have not, however, attained their object. The Porte has remained unshaken in its formal refusal of any effective guarantee for the security of its Christian subjects, and has rejected the conclusions at the Constantinople conference. Wishing to essay every possible means of conciliation in order to persuade the Porte, we proposed to other cabinets to draw up a special protocol comprising the most essential conditions of the Constantinople conference, and to invite the Turkish government to adhere to this international act, which states the extreme limits of our peaceful demands. But our expectation was not fulfilled. The Porte did not defer to this unanimous wish of Christian Europe, and did not adhere to the conclusions of the protocol. Having exhausted pacific efforts, we are compelled by the naughty obstinacy of the Porte to proceed to more decisive acts, feeling that our equity and dignity enjoin it. By her refusal Turkey places us under the necessity of having recourse to arms. Profoundly convinced of the justice of our cause, and committing ourselves to the grace of the Most High, we make known to our faithful subjects that the moment foreseen when we pronounced the words to which all Russia responded with complete unanimity has arrived. We expressed the intention to act independently when we deemed it necessary, and when Russia's honor should demand it. Now invoking the blessing of God upon our arms, we give them the order to cross the Turkish frontier. (Signed) ALEXANDER.

TURKEY'S REPLY AND PROTEST.

Savet Pasha, in reply to the manifesto of the Czar, has sent a long circular dispatch to the great powers. It protests against the declaration of war, pointing out the efforts of Turkey to improve the condition of the Christians, and to satisfy the demands of the powers. In the absence, therefore, of any provocation on the part of Turkey, Savet Pasha declares that the Porte is at last to understand that Russia attacks, and consequently appeals to the treaty of Paris and mediation of the guaranteeing powers. Turkish papers state that Suliman Pasha has passed through the Duga defile, after repulsing the Montenegrins, and is marching to Nicesic.

PRACTICAL TEMPERANCE.

The pressing need, in New York at least, to which the friends of sobriety should give their attention, is the regulation and the diminution, so far as may be found possible, of the tipling shops. There are those who think that the sale of strong drink should be put entirely under the ban of the law, and this opinion is held by many who think that all persons should abstain from its use. But, as Dr. Howard Crosby says in his letter which we print this morning, there are many respectable persons who do not believe that it is wrong to drink spirits, wine, or beer. Of course they do not believe that it is wrong to sell them. But this does not prevent them from admitting that it is highly undesirable to have a gin-mill in full blast upon every corner. The whole subject has again come before the Assembly, and there seems an opportunity of revising the statutes relating to the sale, and possibly of limiting legally the retail trade to the licensed public houses.

No harm can come of keeping distinctly in view the two branches of temperance work which the present exigency has created. The moral suasion, and the lecturing, and the pledging of men may go on as before. But this need not stay the hands of those who propose to devote themselves to a diminution in number of the low, dirty, mischievous tippling shops which are a disgrace to the city and a disease of the poorer and worse-paved neighborhoods. In short, and we might say, but for the danger of being misunderstood, because of the sometimes improper partakers of wine or spirits or beer, it cannot cost any labor to suppress those centers which contribute to the demoralization of our city, to good order or health. We do not know that we need return to the subject of high license, because we do not know that we need go back to the traffic, or permit ourselves to be drawn into a discussion of the question. [illegible] N. Y. Tribune, April [illegible]

D. J. MARTIN'S.

A visit to the business house of Mr. D. J. Martin, on Tejon Street, will convince any unprejudiced person that Mr. Martin does not intend to allow his stock to be depleted by the constant inroads that are made upon it by purchasers. Entering under the awnings that cover the front doors and windows, one finds himself surrounded by beautiful articles in the dry goods line which would take more space than can be spared to enumerate. Shelves are packed with handsome patterns of late styles of dress goods, comprising alpacas, casimeres, plaids, linens, cambrics, and percales, and a large variety of imported and domestic goods. Counters are piled with muslins, table linens, towelings, and other goods for which demands are so unceasing as to make their storing on shelves a loss of time and a waste of labor. Showcases are tastefully arranged with articles which require to be kept covered from the dust, and present in elegant display of kids, corsets, collars, cuffs, and what not. Parasols are exposed in tempting variety, and spoons and knives in brilliant and delicate hues and tints enliven and beautify the whole. Laces and notions are attractively draped and festooned over the counters so as to present their beauties in most attractive light to admiring feminine eyes.

At the back end of this large and handsome room counters are arranged, on which are heaped ready-made garments for gentlemen, including everything from a fine handkerchief to a pair of riveted overalls, or from a new and stylish waistcoat to a pair of British hose. Winding up the broad stairs at the rear of this room one enters another large room overhead, in which are exposed handsome rugs, oil cloths, blankets, comforters, stair carpets, curtain goods, and all grades of carpets from a cheap rag to a tapestry Brussels. There, too, are more counters stacked high with gentlemen's suits, stylish in cut, elegant in fit, and made of the most fashionable goods known to the trade. Two other rooms are also occupied by goods which it would be impossible to describe or even name, but which will be forthcoming whenever one calls for anything which may not appear to his sight, but which ought to be kept in a store with such a stock as Mr. Martin keeps. Collars for gentlemen in baskets and buckets—the cases themselves worth the money asked for case and contents; shirts—ungaundried and gaundried—at most reasonable prices; hats of all kinds, and in fact everything for which there is any demand, present or prospective, stand forth or hide themselves among tons of goods which are always kept fresh by being renewed from Eastern markets as fast as they are taken away by the throngs of customers from this city and neighboring towns and ranches, who may be seen daily visiting this fashionable emporium.

Scribner for May has several seasonable papers on home life, indoors and out. The most prominent of these is perhaps Col. Waring's discussion of the organization and work of "Village Improvement Associations," in the course of which he gives a draft of by-laws which he recommends as of great working value. Col. Waring gives a sketch of the Stockbridge, Mass., association, and goes into the details of sidewalk and road making, and the village water supply. Supplementing this, in the "Home and Society" department, are directions on "Champagne," by E. T. Quinn. The opening of a series on House-Decorating, by Clarence Cook, takes a plea for individuality of taste, and claims that one need not be needed good taste to make a beautiful home. Other illustrated papers deal with "Girls' Colleges," Northampton, Mass., the only institution for women, [illegible] where Greek is taught. There is also a paper of "Reminiscences of Washington," [illegible] recollections of a member of Congress [illegible] from Gen. W. SNOW STORMS.

Many people supposed that the snow storm which began on the 8th was the regular spring storm with which this section is visited, but last Tuesday morning proved that such supposition was erroneous, as there was another storm in progress, which continued until Thursday night without intermission, delaying trains and soaking the ground until walking was a most disagreeable and difficult undertaking. Yesterday morning the sun put in his appearance but a light snow continued to fall at intervals, and it was quite cool, although the snow melted all the time and water was running in the streets. Without assuming to be a prophet or the son of a prophet, one may venture the assertion that when this fall of snow disappears good weather will be the order. Meanwhile this damp weather will be apt to bleach the grass that had dried, and cattle will find difficulty in getting good feed until the new grass starts, which it will do rapidly on sunny uplands.

It may not be without interest to recall previous storms that have visited this part of Colorado, some of which will be remembered by people now living here.

On the 14th of April, 1874, snow began falling, and fell rapidly and uninterruptedly through that night and the next day, and continued, though in an abated degree, during the second night and third morning. The total amounted to 33 inches. Very little wind accompanied the storm, hence there was little drifting, but the great depth on the level made locomotion very difficult. Trains on the D. & R. G. got through to this place nearly on time on the 15th, but the northward-bound train remained here over night. The next day there was little or no delay. Telegraph wires gave way beneath the weight of snow. Colorado Springs seems to have received the chief benefit of the fall, though Pueblo and Denver both had some snow.

The Chieftain said that a year that 400 moons (34 years) ago, when he was a pappoose, it snowed for five sleeps (days and nights), and the snow was as high as a man's head. A number of the Utes, he said, were frozen to death, through being lost in the snow.

A gentleman who was through this section in 1858, with an expedition bound for Salt Lake, says that the snow fell for several days in succession in the early part of May, being so deep that they lost a large number of sheep which they were driving with them for provisions, and also several of their mules. While camping in this neighborhood, he said, they saw large numbers of elk, wild horses, and antelope on the mesa between here and the Garden of the Gods.

On the 2nd of May, 1859, twelve inches of snow fell, the storm continuing night and part of the following day.

On the 20th of April, 1862, there was a similar snow to the experience of 1874, commencing a night and day, and resulting in a total fall of 34 inches.

In November, 1864, it snowed for course of [illegible] and about [illegible]

In the month of 1867 there was now [illegible] to prevent the running of the cars.

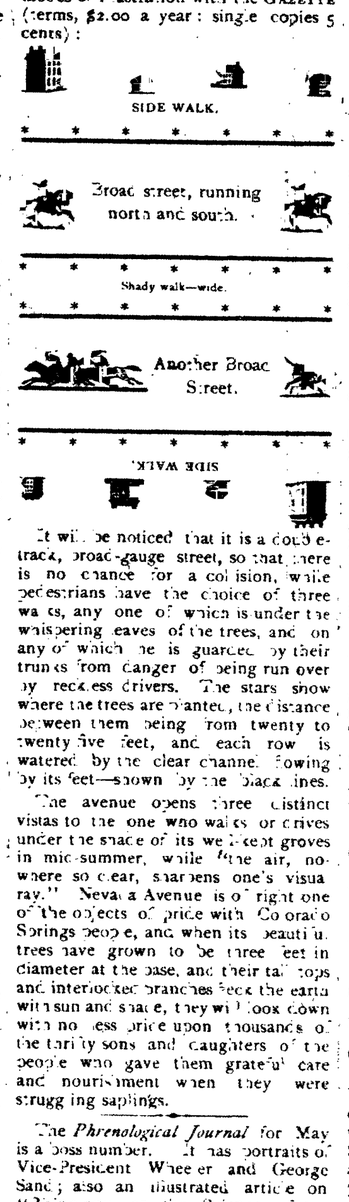
NEVADA AVENUE.

Nevada avenue is surely equal for a drive or stroll to any street in any town in the United States. With its four rows of handsome cottonwoods, four ditches of rushing water, and home-like, unpretentious residences, its level surface, and freedom from noise and dust, it presents a view of mountain and plain surpassed by none. For the enlightenment of away-from-home readers, the following diagram of the avenue is given, and it may as well be remarked here that diagrams are favorite modes of illustration with the GAZETTE (terms, $2.00 a year; single copies 5 cents):



It will be noticed that it is a double-track, broad-gauge street, so that there is no chance for a collision, while pedestrians have the choice of three walks, any one of which is under the whispering leaves of the trees, and on any of which he is guarded by their trunks from danger of being run over by reckless drivers. The stars show where the trees are planted, the distance between them being from twenty to twenty-five feet, and each row is watered by the clear channel flowing by its feet—shown by the black lines.

The avenue opens three distinct vistas to the one who walks or drives under the shade of its well-kept groves in mid-summer, while "the air, nowhere so clear, sharpens one's visual ray." Nevada Avenue is of right one of the objects of pride with Colorado Springs people, and when its beautiful trees have grown to be three feet in diameter at the base, and their tall tops and interlocked branches fleck the earth with sun and shade, they will look down with no less pride upon thousands of the thrifty sons and daughters of the people who gave them grateful care and nourishment when they were struggling saplings.

The Phrenological Journal for May is a boss number. It has portraits of Vice-President Wheeler and George Sand; also an illustrated article on "Rhinology, or the Science of the Nose," from the German.

Fifty guests dined at the United States Restaurant yesterday. The constant growth of patronage has induced the proprietors to enlarge their accommodations to meet the requirements of their increasing business, and Messrs. Pascoe & Co. will at once take the necessary steps to that end.

When a merchant is not represented by a card in his home paper it is fair to infer that he does not wish the readers of that paper to deal at his establishment, or that he does not care to call attention to his meagre stock in trade. A stock of goods that is not worth advertising is not worth examining. You may be sure that the cards in this paper all represent good houses and large stocks.

The rates fixed by law for animals killed by railway trains in this State are as follows: Texas yearlings, $7; Texas two years old, $12; Texas three years old and over $15; American yearlings, $10; American two years old, $18; American three years old and over, $25; work cattle, $25; American sheep, each, $2.50; Mexican sheep, each, $1.50.

Sufferers should use Dr. Tutt's Sarsaparilla. [illegible]

MINERS FOR ORO CITY.

Between 50 and 60 men arrived in Colorado Springs on Thursday by way of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Denver & Rio Grande. They are nearly all young, stout looking men, and all come from Detroit, Michigan. They were employed by Mr. W. B. Stevens, who was in Detroit, for the Oro Mining Company, at Oro City, California Gulch. Messrs. Tuttle & Sutton have been busy engaging teams to transport them and their luggage to their destination, and they will get off to-day or to-morrow. These men report that others are coming.

The Oro Mining Company expects to ship ores East this season by way of Colorado Springs, and is confident that it will be only limited in the amount shipped by the means of transportation to this place.

This will be cheering news to teamsters, who can find all the work they want for themselves and teams, having loads both to and from the mines. It will also be a good thing for all business interests of the city, and if merchants hold out proper inducements in stocks and prices, as they doubtless will, a large business will flow to the Springs.

A Woman's Missionary Meeting will be held at some time during the session of the Association. Delegates are invited from the Woman's Missionary Societies connected with the churches, and as many other ladies as can be present.

As many as can do so are invited to remain over the Sabbath. Friday afternoon and Saturday can be used in visiting objects of interest in the neighborhood. Those who will have to return home Friday can come a day earlier for that purpose.

It is hoped that as many as possible will attend, whether they are delegates or not.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.

The election for one director of this school district will occur on Monday week, the 7th day of May. Women are qualified to vote at any school district election, and they should come out on this occasion and exercise the right of suffrage in sufficient numbers to show that they are in earnest in their demand for the ballot on the same conditions as their brothers enjoy it. Sec. 42 of the school law of Colorado defines the qualifications of a voter, and reads as follows:—

SECTION 42. Every elector, legally qualified to vote at a general election, having been a resident of the school district for thirty (30) days next preceding the day of election, and who shall have paid all school taxes assessed against him, shall be entitled to vote. Any person offering to vote may be challenged by any legally qualified elector of the district, and any one of the judges of election shall thereupon administer to the person challenged, an oath as follows: "You do swear (or affirm) that you are a citizen of the United States, or that you have declared your intention to become such; that you have resided in the Territory (State) of Colorado six months immediately preceding this election; that you are twenty-one years of age; that you have resided in this district thirty days next preceding this election; that there are no unpaid school taxes assessed against you, and that you have not voted at this election, so help you God." If he shall refuse to take such oath or affirmation, his vote shall be rejected, and any person guilty of voting illegally shall be punished as provided in the general election laws of this Territory (State). The President, Secretary and Treasurer of the district school board shall act as judges of the election, and should any one of them be absent at the opening of the polls, the electors present shall appoint a judge to fill the vacancy.

Hon. J. C. Shattuck, Superintendent of Public Instruction, says in a recent decision of the school law that not been changed, but the Constitution has given the right to vote at school district elections, not to and any school district officer, on account of sex. THE COLORADO SPRINGS GAZETTE
AND EL PASO COUNTY NEWS.

APRIL 28, 1877.

Official Paper of El Paso County and of the City of Colorado Springs.

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

Yesterday's papers contain a dispatch stating that the first engagement between the Turks and Russians has just been fought, with victory to the Turkish arms. The same papers contain the following:—

An intelligent London correspondent writes on the 14th: We shall not grow half enough in England to feed the mouths at home. A large part of the country is still under water. I traveled through Sussex last week. It was a most depressing sight to see the wretched state of the land. Farmers ought to have gotten their seed in long ago, but although it may be wise to cast bread upon the waters, it is of no use to fling seed there. A farmer showed a row of Seeds on a hillside near Lewis, which he had sown one day and the next morning he found the seed in a turnpike road. Heavy rains during the night had washed it all down. What sort of a harvest are we likely to have, with such a beginning as this?

The war news from Europe has already caused an advance in Chicago of 22 cents per bushel in wheat, since last Monday, and the above paragraph indicates that England will furnish a larger demand for breadstuffs than usual, and as this demand has generally been supplied in part from the wheat-growing regions of Southern Russia, which under the existing State of affairs will be unable to furnish their usual surplus, it follows that England must look to America for the grain which she cannot raise herself or purchase from European countries. Even though the other powers may not become involved, which is by no means certain, America will be called upon for every bushel of grain which may not be required for home consumption, and the war which will bring poverty and misery to many human beings, will in all probability be a windfall for the agricultural population of this country, and hence a blessing to every other interest. The crop prospects in view of this foreign war will have more than ordinary interest to people all over the country, and should the present hopeful outlook for grain not be crushed out by unfavorable weather, insects, and other destructive forces this may prove the golden year for America. "Ills in the wind that blows nobody good."

THE ORDINANCES.

The Council has during the week issued a circular containing extracts from the ordinances, and calling the attention of citizens to the provisions concerning penalties for doing certain things. This is eminently just and right, for people ought to be made acquainted with the laws which they are expected to obey, and for a violation of which the plea of ignorance is not allowed as a bar to the infliction of penalties. Nobody considers it any great hardship, after people have been warned not to keep a pig sty under their neighbors' windows, and neglect to heed the warning, they are fined as the ordinances provide. But when the same code provides that men shall be punished if they keep cows in the streets where persons can go and make beasts of themselves, it leaves at least one which a well bred hog would turn up its nose at. And certain parties are accused of doing this very thing, the effect is that the penalty prescribed by the ordinance is termed by the aforesaid for the law-breakers "a farce." It is seldom that a community is found in which there are not some men who are willing for the sake of gain to violate the laws enacted by the agents of the people, but for the good name of humanity let it be said that cases are rare where any respectable portion of the community is found to apologize for the law-breakers and deride the officers for attempting to do their duty. But such cases are not wholly wanting in the world, and almost any man of average intelligence can tell when a case of the kind comes under his observation, although he be not a remarkably close observer.

The grain market has sustained a heavy rise on account of European war news.

The riotous miners in Weld County have again blown up the Boulder Valley Coal Mine, and the militia may yet have to quarter in that section. Let justice be done though the heavens fall.

The Louisiana Legislature elected Judge E. M. Spofford to the United States Senate on Tuesday. The Republicans made no nomination, and most of them voted for Spofford, the nominee of the Democratic party.

The Prince of Montenegro declares that he will, as in former times, desperately defend his territory against the superior forces of Turkey, hoping if defeated that Christian Europe will defend women and children.

The troops in New Orleans moved out of their old quarters on Tuesday, at noon, and marched to the barracks. There was no excitement, but in the afternoon one hundred guns were fired and flags were displayed, in honor of the withdrawal.

Edward McPherson, ex-Clerk of the House of Representatives, is appointed chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in the Treasury Department. He will take charge of the bureau on the first of May. C. E. Irish, of Nebraska, is appointed assistant chief of the bureau vice Charles McCartee, resigned.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean publishes crop reports from 159 counties in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Maryland. The section covered embraces the large fruit and winter-wheat-growing region of the country. Wheat seems to be promising. In 24 counties it is reported excellent, in 90 average, and in only 29 poor. In 180 counties peaches are reported injured or wholly destroyed, in 191 a fair average crop is promised, and in only 61 not a new promising. Apples are reported the crop in 69 counties, in 309 average, and in 20 as a poor or partial crop. Cherries are rather fruitless in promise, and average crop.

A commission appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury to investigate the affairs of the New York custom house has decided to hold the investigation with closed doors.

The Louisiana matter has been settled—by surrendering the legal government to the one that seemed to have most force. And this is what is termed the liberal policy of the administration, and it is liberal, very liberal, to give one's enemies all they want to keep them quiet, even though it does injustice to true and tried friends who are powerless to do more good for one. The sentiment of the country will undoubtedly be that if Mr. Packard was not elected Governor of Louisiana, Mr. Hayes holds his seat by a very uncertain tenure.

Major Henry McAllister returned with his family from the East by last evening's train from the south.

This morning is bright and clear and very little snow will be left by night, except on the mountains.

Esquire W. L. Weed has spent the week at La Veta, buying wheat and attending to other business.

Rev. C. M. Terry, pastor of the Congregational church at St. Paul, Minn., has arrived in town with his wife and another lady to spend a few weeks. Mr. Terry is here for his health.

Mr. J. A. Seelye, special agent of the Imperial and Northern and Commercial Union Insurance Companies, of London, England, was in the city this week, and placed agencies of those stanch companies with C. E. Wessley.

A little fellow was sent over into a neighbor's yard the other day to drive home some chickens. When he got home his mother asked him if Mrs. —, the neighbor, was at home. He answered: "No; but there was a lady with a white hood on who looked out of the window at me." What he saw was the large chromo of Beatrice Cenci.

Last Monday E. W. Morse was brought before Justice Price upon the complaint of Robert Cory, charged with stealing a suit of clothes, 3 blankets, a new pair of boots, a cartridge belt, and a satchel, valued at more than $20. Morse pleaded guilty, the articles being found in his possession, and in default of a $500 bond for his appearance at the next term of the District Court, was sent to jail.

St. Nicholas for May is as fine a number for a children's magazine as heart could wish for. In matter and illustration, it is wholly admirable and delightful, a wonder of beauty and interest, sure to bring delight and pleasure to every home it enters, and to make all its readers happy, whether young or old. The spring-time lightness pervades, and glorifies the whole number—making it as full of breezy, buoyant life and cheer as a morning in the "merrie month of May." Indeed, the grand spring number of St Nicholas is as fine an issue of a children's magazine as the world has ever seen.

The Congregational Church of this place unanimously invite Rev. R. T. Cross to become their permanent pastor, and he accepts the invitation. The council of churches called to assist in the installation exercises will meet at 9:00 a. m., Friday, May 4. The installation exercises will probably take place Friday afternoon or evening. They will consist of a charge to the pastor, a charge to the church, the right hand of fellowship, and a welcome from the church, besides the usual devotional exercises.

The law makes it the duty of all to list their property and return the schedule, sworn to, to the Assessor before the 20th of May. Heretofore there has been $300 worth of household and personal property exempt from taxation, but the new law exempts nothing. On its face this may appear to be a hardship, but careful consideration will show that if all property is to be taxed the aggregate valuation will be so largely increased that the rate will be correspondingly low, so that the burden will fall with equal ease on all—the rich and the poor.

The Cañon City Avalanche says: "The trial of M. Nott for the murder of Pat Devers, of El Paso County, brought here on a change of venue, excited much interest. The prisoner is an intelligent looking man, and was deeply sympathized with." After the jury had been out twenty-six hours in the above case, they were discharged on the ground that it was impossible for them to agree. They stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. After they were discharged eleven of the jurors signed a petition to the court asking that the case be nolle prossed. The case has excited a great deal of interest in that portion of the State, public sympathy being largely on the side of the prisoner. Nott has been brought back here by Sheriff Becker and lodged in jail, to await a new trial.

Major Macomber returned from Denver on Thursday. While in the metropolis he secured from Adjutant-General Roe sabres enough to arm the Colorado Springs Cavalry, and they are expected by every train. This will be good news for the company, and will place the men under one more obligation to Major Macomber, whose interest in the organization has never flagged and whose services have ever been of the kind to merit and receive recognition from all concerned. He says the ball given by the Governor Guard was a grand success, and the men, in their handsome uniforms, presented an appearance that would do credit to any company in the land. The organization is one of which the State may right to be proud, and is worthy of encouragement by the Sorting Cavalry. The Major and General Roe earned, to-day, the gratitude of few men to whom they are well known, and it is the wish of many to see the company.

Trains north and south were delayed by snow on Thursday.

Last Tuesday Messrs. Joseph Dozier and D. K. Lee erected the handsome sign over the new location of Savage & Florance, the live boot and shoe dealers next door to this office. These are men who are not afraid to call attention to their stock in all legitimate ways, since their stock is always up to the demands of the market.

Mr. McCarty has the reputation of being second to none as a blacksmith and horse-shoer, and patrons can rely upon satisfactory work whether performed by principal or assistant.

Hon. J. B. Belford has placed this office under obligations for a copy of the Congressional Record, containing the certificates and objections referred to the Electoral Commission by the joint convention of the two houses of Congress in the cases of Florida, Louisiana, Oregon, and South Carolina, with the remarks of the different Commissioners. It is a valuable historical document, and will be preserved with care.

Mr. R. O. Old, a citizen of Georgetown, and for seventeen years interested in Colorado mines, came down to the Springs on Tuesday, remaining only one day. He noticed the great improvements of the city since his last visit. While in town Mr. Old called at this office, and kindly left a copy of his work on "Colorado, its mines and other resources." Extracts may be made from the work hereafter.

The Kansas Pacific Railroad has issued a pamphlet of sixty-four pages, entitled "Silver and Gold in the Southern Rocky Mountains." It also contains a description of the journey of Lieutenant Kennon, of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., who last year made a reconnoissance of the Colorado Mountains, and discovered and explored the Grand River Valley. The pamphlet is well worth a perusal by those desiring information about Colorado.

Granite iron-ware is the handsomest ware that has ever been introduced for cooking vessels and household articles. Nearly everything is made of it, and all articles are much more durable in this ware than in plain iron or tin. G. S. Barnes has a fine assortment of it at his store on Tejon Street.

In another column will be found the report of the condition of the First National Bank of Colorado Springs at the close of business on the 14th of the present month. An examination of this report will show that the business has been very satisfactory, and that the institution is at present in good condition.

F. L. Thayer & Co. have issued the eighth edition of their map of Colorado. It is 25 by 32 inches in size, the scale being 22 miles to the inch. The map has evidently been prepared with much care, and the representation is accurate. All the new counties and their boundaries are accurately given. It is printed on paper, at fifty cents.

If you don't happen to have a barometer about the house, watch your grass clothes-line stretched across the yard. Whenever the sun shines and the air is dry the line will shorten and hang down, but if there is moisture in the atmosphere it will contract and tighten up until it will sound like a drum if struck.

Mr. C. McC. Reeve, a banker of Minneapolis, Minn., is visiting Colorado Springs, and contemplates locating here if he finds anything that suits him. He is corresponding for the New York World and the Minneapolis papers. Mr. Reeve likes Colorado Springs so far, and if he can tolerate it at all with the weather it has had for the past week, he is sure to be charmed when Colorado's climate resumes its sway.

An affray between W. S. Kenney, of the International Restaurant, and Ray McLaughlin, of Tarryall Creek, occurred at the store of Ocie & Aiken on Wednesday evening. The le passed, when Kerney tried to grab a can of peaches upon the countenance of the other, but the attempt was a failure, as the missile missed its mark. Then McLaughlin struck Kenney over the eye with a hatchet, the injury being slight. The hatchet man stopped, but was arrested by Constable Dana in Colorado City, and on Thursday was fined $5 and costs, by Justice Price, the whole amounting to a little over $17.

Last Sunday, as Mr. George Everhart and two ladies were driving down Huerfano Street, the strap holding the breast-hole to the collar of the horses broke, allowing the pole to fall to the ground. The ladies and Mr. Everhart jumped out, the gentleman falling so as to hurt himself in a slight manner, but ladies got out safe and sound. The affair excited much comment.

The attention of citizens is called to the circular issued by the Council this week, warning everybody to refrain from depositing rubbish, weeds and litter, or piling combustible material where it could be a menace to adjacent property in case of fire. In no certain way is economy more a virtue, and the power of the City Council to enforce the ordinance against the careless and careless is ample. The ordinance is published in full in the GAZETTE, and the power of the Council to enforce it is ample. The ordinance is published in full in the GAZETTE, and the power of the Council to enforce it is ample.
